

PROTESTS ON U-BOAT ULTIMATUM FLOOD BOTH SIDES OF CAPITOL

the destruction of merchant ships by vessels of war, and therefore would be acceptable as the declaration of the German government's intention to provide adequately for the safety of non-combatants aboard merchantmen captured by submarines.

He asserted, however, that this rule laid down by the German government had been violated by German submarine commanders in the Mediterranean.

Under the circumstances, he said, a reiteration of the promise could not be regarded as wholly acceptable unless it is enforced more satisfactorily in the future than in the past.

Mr. Lansing then went on to say that no assurances or mode of procedure will be acceptable unless all the principles of international law governing maritime warfare are complied with in word and deed.

He asserted that the president insists that all submarine commanders must be required to visit and search their prizes, as well as to place non-combatants in a place of safety. The president, said the secretary, does not regard lifeboats on the open sea a satisfactory "place of safety." He cannot regard it permissible to place passengers and crew in lifeboats except possibly in fine weather within sight of land.

Given Week for Reply.

Count von Bernstorff also sought information as to when the president would expect an answer to his ultimatum, in which he demanded that the German government immediately declare its abandonment of the present methods of submarine warfare.

Mr. Lansing thought that three or four days would be a reasonable time to allow, but the ambassador expressed the opinion that it would be impossible for the German officials to confer with the Kaiser and return an answer within a week from the time the ultimatum was delivered, which was today.

Mr. Lansing indicated that a week would be the extreme limit of time the administration would allow for an answer.

The premier gave the ambassador to understand that the administration would be willing to discuss with Germany an agreement on the rules of conducting submarine warfare, but would not do so unless the present methods were abandoned at once. The ambassador is hopeful that an understanding can be reached on this basis.

Break on Another Attack.

Mr. Lansing was emphatic stating that if another merchantman be sunk without warning or without proper provision for the safety of persons aboard the president will sever diplomatic relations.

The ambassador pointed out that it may take more than a week for the German admiralty to communicate with all submarines now away from their bases, and expressed the hope that any untoward incident taking place in that time would not be regarded by the president as indicating the attitude of the Berlin government toward the president's ultimatum.

Because of this situation both the ambassador and the administration will weigh the reports from the submarine war zone in the next few days with great anxiety.

Congress Is Divided.

Discussion of the submarine campaign during the day was confined to the cloakroom, but disclosed that congress is divided on the question of approving the course adopted by the president.

While the majority of the eastern senators and representatives uphold the president in his threat to sever diplomatic relations, the majority of the western legislators are arrayed in opposition to the course.

At the same time it is realized that congress' powers to prevent war if the president should sever diplomatic relations and Germany then should either declare war or adopt a course which would precipitate hostilities.

NOTE A UNIQUE EXPERIMENT, IS LONDON'S VIEW

First Determined Effort by a Neutral to Deal with New Warfare, Post Says.

LONDON, April 21.—The Morning Post in an editorial finds the American note "a most interesting experiment, inasmuch as it is the first determined effort on the part of a neutral nation to deal with the new element in naval warfare."

"America is trying," the Post continues, "to forbid the use of the submarine in the war upon commerce. It does not appear, however, that the American note defines the rules which are to regulate submarine warfare, although the full text of the note may reveal such a definition."

"All that Germany is required to do at present is to abandon what, in one word, is the blackest piracy, or pair of sevenses of diplomatic negotiations. Exactly what this phrase implies remains to be seen. It does not necessarily involve war, but it may lead to the fooy of the neutral nations of the world in attacking the common enemy of humanity."

The Post expects that Germany will attempt to lead the Washington government into a controversy over details, and adds:

"Germany, confronted with a demand to relinquish her principal weapon at sea, will do her utmost to evade the demand and gain time. How much time depends on President Wilson."

Framed with Moderation.

The Times says:

"The note is framed with moderation and self-restraint, which become the chief magistrate of a great people in a grave and anxious time."

The Daily News says: "The note takes high ground worthy of a great nation whose moral and material forces are behind the demand. There remains for Germany only a straight and rapid choice between submission and war. By all means sign her choice will be war, and the intensity is likely to be short and quickly decided."

U. S. Alliance Welcome.

"The moral value to the allies of an alliance with America can hardly be overstated, either in this country, which is bound by ties of race and spirit with America, or in France, where associations dating from the stormy births of both nations have been strengthened by the memory of common struggles and the realization of common ideals."

"Nor can the material effect of America's intervention be dismissed as of small account. President Wilson, without moving a soldier or a ship, can affect more powerfully both the duration of the war and the conditions of peace. His action has already weighted the balance heavily in favor of the allies."

Paris Press Comment.

PARIIS, April 20.—Paris newspapers comment briefly on the American note.

"It is on Germany," says the Debats,

"that the conclusion of this prolonged debate now depends. It is on her response that hangs the continuance of diplomatic relations or a rupture. She now must give satisfaction without equivocation or delay to the United States, representing the right of nations and of neutrals, and this satisfaction must not be mere words, but merely facts, for the period of negotiation is virtually over."

PETER McDERMOTT, supervisor, City Railways—Germany has broken international laws and laws of humanity for so long that it is high time the president is calling them to task. The German people are all right, but their government is all wrong.

ANDREW E. JOHNSON, traffic policeman—The president's note expressed my sentiments in full. Break off diplomatic relations at once, I say, because Germany doesn't respect international law.

E. HALLMAN, cigar salesman, 6907 Emerald avenue—I don't favor Wilson's note one bit. He's playing politics and he's pro-British.

FRED N. LYON, police sergeant, First precinct—President Wilson has taken the stand. I'm for him right and left.

J. H. HOFFMAN, traffic policeman—I do not think President Wilson's note to Germany was fair. Where most of the world is fighting and none of the belligerents are, it is only natural that the world should be at peace.

J. H. MECHARTY, cigar salesman, 1444 North Avens Avenue—The president is not looking at the broad issues. He is partial, pro-ally, and nothing else. I am not one of the believers in peace at any cost.

how much farther is it?" we asked.
"We are trying to reach Col. Brown there."

"Col. Brown is here," replied the sentry. "None of our troops is in Parral."

Had Santa Cruz de Villegas lain on any other road and had Maj. Tompkins in his withdrawal from Parral stopped at any other place we would not have been intercepted in our drive to Parral and this story would probably have had to do with an entirely different encounter.

An Ancient Hacienda.
Santa Cruz is a large and ancient hacienda, built into the side of the hill. Its adobe walls and corrales are old and high, and the buildings, unlike those on most other ranches, are two and three stories high, being the accumulations of the additions made by several centuries of occupants.

In the pale moonlight its terraces of seceded roofs with projecting timbers took on the aspect of parapets and the embattlements of some feudal castle. In a few minutes we learned that these natural features had been hastily converted into defenses by the handful of American troops.

Around the pool and in the shadows of the cottonwood at the bottom of the hill the Negro troops of Col. Brown's command were lighting their camp fire over the camp fire, while the famished horses lay down to chew nourishment from corn stalks and the blades of sparse grass nearby.

TAKEN TO SEE TOMPKINS.
The sentry who led us between the rows of buildings up the hill sounded his rifle and on the enormous carved wooden doors of a gate which led into the inner corral of the largest rambling pile of mud. An inner guard answered the summons and we were admitted to a dark tunnel of generous proportions and led up a flight of dark stairs which seemed "nothing" more than uneven niches cut roughly in the mud.

"Is Maj. Tompkins here?" Capt. _____ asked as we crossed a patch of woodland on stone roof and entered a large dark room with an uneven stone floor.
A man who had been strumming a guitar in the darkness stopped his extemporizing and we heard him walking toward us. The only light in the room came through a portier of rags which draped a pool at one end.

"HUSTLE A LIGHT, BOYS."
"This is Maj. Tompkins, adjutant," said the guitar-player. "Who is it?"
"We come from Gen. Pershing," replied Capt. _____ and we—"

"Lights," shouted the adjutant.
"Here's a detachment from headquarters; food and news. Maybe orders. Hustle the lamps."

A middle aged man emerged from another hole in the mud wall and by the faint light of the lamp which an orderly held, we saw he was an officer.
"This is Maj. Tompkins," he said, "who is it?"
While Capt. _____ conferred with Col. Brown and Maj. Tompkins in the former's mud walled apartment, the officers of the squadron of the Thirteenth led me into an adjoining large room which was lit by the fire from a huge fireplace, the mud plastered canopy of which extended far out into the room.

STORY OF THE FIGHT

While I washed down roast pork and parched corn with a steaming hot coffee-macaroni made from corn, these travel worn pioneers of the American expedition told the story of the fight at Parral.

On April 11, the night before the entry of Parral, Maj. Tompkins and his 114 men camped here and early the next morning marched to Parral, arriving there at about noon. On the day previous in their passage through the town of Conchas, a Carrancista officer had invited the major and his men into Parral to see the president and the Carrancista commander. He said that representatives of the two dignitaries would meet Maj. Tompkins on the edge of town and escort his command to the commandancia, located on the plaza.

ESCORTE IS LACKING.
Arriving at the edge of the town, the promised reception committee and escort were missing, but upon the insistence of the Carrancista outposts and with their guidance the column marched into town and stopped on the street running into the Plaza Independencia, the center of the mining town, which has a population estimated between 15,000 and 20,000.

Maj. Tompkins, with a lieutenant as interpreter, was escorted to the offices of the commandancia, the commandants on the second floor of the adobe building. The president, José La Luz Herrera, in the father of Gen. Luis Herrera, the Mexican Carrancista commander who paid a formal call on Gen. Funston at San Gerardo and denied his widely reported intention of turning over to the Villa movement if the Americans continued to push southward.

CARRANCIAS IN NAME.
The commandante, Gen. Ismael Lozano, of Parral is an ardent Villaite and his garrison of some 500 troops are Carrancistas now only by reason of the fact that their commander recently left Villa and defected his forces to the Carrancistas. In Mexico this is condoned and is called "changing religion," but in the light of what happened in Parral the circumstances can be taken as a significant side light on the acts of the nominal Carrancistas.

"How many men have you got?" was Gen. Lozano's reply to the Lieutenant's request to see the president. Upon his reply that the Americans numbered only 114, the fat face of the Carrancista general broke into a smile.

Villa "Up on Border."

Maj. Tompkins asked: "Where is Villa?"

"Well, he is not around here," replied Lozano. "He is up around the border going to Ojinaga by way of Concepcion and Satevo."

Following this the American commander explained that his mission had only Villa as an objective, and for the first time the Carrancistas took exception to the presence of the Americans in the town. They said they had received a notice from the official at Conchas who issued the invitation, but later they changed this to the effect that the Conchas official's messenger to them had been captured by Villistas and shot.

The Lieutenant made it plain that the Americans did not care to remain in town and had only entered by reason of the invitation. They said that all they wanted was a camp site outside of the town and the right to buy corn and fodder for the horses. A former American had talked with the major and arranged to bring supplies to the Americans.

Offer Escort to Camp.

Both Mexican officials offered to escort the Americans to the camp designated for them.

The members of the conference went down to the river where Presidents Villa and Carrancista Lozano were mounted on prancing steeds; their spurs clinking and their silver sabers rattling. The Americans mounted and with the two Mexican officials as an escort riding at the head, one on either side of Maj. Tompkins, the column started across the square and out of town by way of the north side, the same side it had entered.

"Viva Mexico!" came a shrill shout from a well dressed Mexican who occupied a prominent position on the bandstand in the center of the town. It was noon and the square and the streets running into it were crowded with Mexican soldiers and civilians, women and children.

Women Urge Men On.

"Viva los Mexicanos!" came the response from a thousand throats. At the same time the disposition of the crowd seemed to undergo a decided change. Women leaning out of windows and from projecting balconies poured down Spanish profanity upon the heads of the troopers passing in the street below.

Ragged, barefooted street boys ran along beside the walking horses shouting "Muerte los gringos!" and making obscene gestures of disapproval to the troopers.

"Mexico," came a shrill shout from a soldierly looking Mexican who sat astride a horse at one of the street intersections. The mob took up the cry.

"Tell Gen. Herrera that I am willing to retire north out of his district if he will permit grain and forage that I have arranged for to come out to my horses. We will wait here until you return."

The courier dashed away.

First American Killed.

During the wait the first American, _____, troop M, Thirteenth, received a bullet in the head.

The Major, who had been seen by Gen. Lozano, said: "I am afraid that you retire immediately." he said, "as he cannot afford to let the town people any longer."

Maj. Tompkins replied: "What are those men doing up there?"

"O, they are just some soldiers up there with their flag," replied the courier.

Buttons for Comrades.

It was during this stand that Private _____, troop M, Thirteenth, received a bullet through the chest. He was lying behind the adobe wall, unable to rise, when the rear guard received orders to withdraw again.

A Lieutenant caught sight of the trooper.

Balk at Further Retreat.

The hacienda had been reached at 4:30 in the afternoon, after four hours of fighting along the road. At 6:30 in the evening two Mexicans under a flag of truce brought in a note from Lozano in off their guns, but they are not shooting at our men," replied Herrera.

Maj. Tompkins looked down upon the gully into which the Mexican officials were leading his column for a camp site. It was small, surrounded by hills, and a small pond occupied half of the bottom.

In the rear of the camp there was no cover, men and officers both characterized the gully as a trap.

"How many men have you got?" was Gen. Lozano's reply to the Lieutenant's request to see the president. Upon his reply that the Americans numbered only 114, the fat face of the Carrancista general broke into a smile.

Villa "Up on Border."

Maj. Tompkins asked: "Where is Villa?"

"Well, he is not around here," replied Lozano. "He is up around the border going to Ojinaga by way of Concepcion and Satevo."

"Rear guard take up position on railroad track," ordered Maj. Tompkins. "Troop M take similar position on hill to left."

The Battle Is On.

"Dismount to fight on foot," shouted Capt. _____, commander of M troop, which troop K comprised the command. "Action to left."

The fight was on.

The Americans had dismounted and were getting closer. Maj. Tompkins, who remained with his rear guard throughout the retreat, dismounted eight more and, taking a position behind a stone wall, returned the Mexican fire at a range of 500 yards.

The major held his men's horses while they fired. Three of the four horses were killed while he held them. Then a ricochet bullet caught him in the left breast and knocked him down. Another bullet took a slice out of the left ear of Lieut. _____, who remained with the major.

In this first stand the major and the rear guard of eight men stood up under the hot Mexican fire for both sides of the road and embankment in the shelter of which the major and his staff had dismounted.

A horseman raced up to Maj. Tompkins. "Gen. Lozano says that you retire immediately," he said, "as he cannot afford to let the town people any longer."

Maj. Tompkins replied: "What are those men doing up there?"

The lead pellets were ringing against the iron rails and splintering the ties.

AMERICAN ARMY TURNS NORTH ABOVE SATEVO

Report to Funston Shows That Advanced Forces Have Retired Some Distance.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., April 20.—[Special.]—Official reports received at Gen. Funston's headquarters and permitted to be made public show at least a temporary retirement of the advanced expeditionary force.

All United States soldiers now are north of Satevo, a point south of which many were operating recently.

Official reports show probability of further opposition to the American expedition by forces other than the Villa bandits.

Horne's Men Ambushed.

Details were made public tonight of the attack on Maj. Horne's squadron of the Eleventh cavalry at Bachineva.

This attack occurred at about the same time that Villa's men were trapped at Peralta. Likewise was an ambush, but apparently was participated in only by the report, which was from Gen. Pershing and which required six days for transmission, is confidential, and Gen. Funston gave out only the barest details of the fight. It was forwarded at once to Washington.

Rear Guard Fired On.

The rear guard of the troops was fired upon by citizens of Bachineva, Gen. Pershing says.

Maj. Horne immediately wheeled his column into the town, but apparently he had learned very little of the shooting.

It appears that snipers had been posted in the flat roofs of some of the houses in the outskirts. The offenders disappeared after they had fired at the backs of the soldiers. No casualties are reported.

Gen. Pershing definitely lays the blame upon the jefe politico, the chief civic magistrate of the community, who is responsible directly to Gen. Carranza.

Under Mexican system, Gen. Pershing was informed, the military authorities could not lawfully punish the jefe politico.

Catch Three of Villa Band.

Headquarters Punitive Expedition, U.S. Army near Nampicu, Mexico, April 20.—Scouts returning to camp told that they had been ambushed at midnight on Friday, report having jumped a band of men supposed to be supporters of Canudos Cervantes, one of Villa's trusted "subversives," early Sunday morning and driven seven horses in hobbles, and after short chase, made prisoners of them.

Scouts followed the rest of the band several miles to a point on the Santa Clara river below San Gerónimo, where the trail was lost. The band is supposed to have taken refuge in the mountains to the westward of San Gerónimo.

Surprised at Breakfast.

The men were surprised while getting breakfast and were pursued closely. They had no time to eat or utter their shouts. The pursuit will be continued as soon as fresh men and mounts can be put on the trail.

It is not known whether the bandit who is with the band is trained to fight. The two decoys they are connected with the bandit and say they know nothing of him.

Cervantes' whereabouts were betrayed through his fondness for his family, which lives at Nampicu. He had a habit of making clandestine visits to his wife with two or three times a week, notwithstanding the proximity of the American troops. A watch was set for him without fail and cavalry was then ordered to take field in search of him, with results as above.

Know of Note to Germany.

EL PASO, Tex., April 20.—On Monday the Chihuahua City newspapers printed dispatches supposed to have come from Mexico, stating that President Wilson was about to deliver an ultimatum to Germany and that war would be declared within a week. This information was brought today by Americans returning from Chihuahua, who brought copies of the newspapers in which the dispatches appeared.

The arrivals said that the news of crisis between Germany and the United States was common talk in Chihuahua City on Sunday, forty-eight hours before the note was made public in this country.

"Our Country! In her intercourse with foreign nations may she always be in the right; but our country, right or wrong."
—Stephen Decatur.

BITTER FRUIT.

We suppose that many of our readers believe that we are continually nagging at President Wilson, finding fault with whatever he does, making fun of his lofty purposes and deep visions, pursuing him with the methods always employed by political outs against political ins for reasons of partisan politics.

It is true that not since Buchanan has there been a president from whom THE TRIBUNE differed as fundamentally and implacably as it differs from Mr. Wilson.

This difference of thought, temperament, ideals, sense of duty, and sacrifice goes down clear to the bottom of our consciousness and of his. His mind is essentially and predominantly (more so than that of any conspicuous politician we have ever had) what the philosopher call deductive. First he accepts a theory as to his and his country's rights, duties, responsibilities, etc., and then to that theory he endeavors to make the facts conform. We believe, on the contrary, that all statesmen worthy the name must be inductive minded. That is, they must first analyze existing political situations, internal and international, and then make their theories conform to those facts and tendencies, not try to make the facts conform to their theories.

Again, on account of his training as a schoolmaster, Mr. Wilson has a scholastic, legalistic mind. He attaches what seems to us to be a disproportionate value to words. He saw the vast power of president of this country transferred to himself because of Mr. Bryan's dialectical skill at the Baltimore convention. Bryan knew just the right second to move the previous question or to adjourn or to ask for a poll of the delegation. By such skill in political expression Mr. Wilson, with practically no experience in political action, suddenly saw himself nominated for one of the two or three most powerful political positions on earth. Naturally this confirmed his predisposition that words speak louder than actions.

Cries were thrust upon him. First (and still) as to Mexico. Next as to the great war. He tried to meet each with excellent rhetoric—and in our sincere conviction, he has failed in each more hopelessly than any president since Buchanan. For he set words first. Though we have been circling around and around war for the last two years like a brig on the circumference of a huge whirlpool, through the influence of Mr. Wilson not one man or one ship or one gun has yet been added to our forces. Relatively to all other powers we have, during the two years in which he has been training his verbal artillery on other nations and factions, slipped back into greater military weakness. For other nations have been vastly increasing their armaments. We have not.

But the most utter difference we have with our president is this: THE TRIBUNE is pro-American. Mr. Wilson, according to his own repeated statements, is not. He says and repeats that he is as much pro-Humanity as pro-American. Indeed, that he is more so. For he says and has repeated that he would fight for the interests of Humanity but would withdraw from the fight when the interests narrowed down to those of the United States alone.

It is incredible! Having earnestly campaigned for the position of president of the United States (not of Humanity), and having been elected by the people of the United States, not by Humanity, and being paid $75,000 a year and traveling expenses by the taxpayers of the United States, not of Humanity, he now states that he feels as high a sense of duty toward Humanity as to the United States.

We know that there are many who think his position in this regard is splendid, noble-minded, etc., but to us it is incredible. As if the guardianship of one hundred million untrained people in a world of war were not enough to concentrate the undivided devotion of one middle aged man but that he must fuss equally about the rest of humanity.

Fate holds a ripe apple to our lips in Mexico and bitter fruit in Flanders. Yet our president persistently turns from the golden fruit and as persistently seems determined finally to make us eat of the bitter one—Humanity! What crimes may soon be committed in the name.

For the foregoing paragraph we may be accused of a crass and base materialism. But, critics, consider this—Mexico is the farm adjoining ours. Its trees are infested with scale; its grains with smut and rusts; its hogs with cholera; its cows with foot and mouth disease; its horses with glanders; its fences with decay; its wells with typhoid; its people with smallpox. And in the name of freedom we refuse to allow our sanitary officers on the premises and thus far we have kept all others off. (After the present war we shall be able to keep them off no longer; it is our own have not meanwhile gone in and cleared up.)

We do not advocate "grabbing" Mexico. But we do not see how even a guardian of Humanity can think he is accomplishing anything for Humanity by allowing the present chaos and misery to continue until England or Germany or Japan fight it.

It is morally reprehensible to permit those Mexican people, the 85 per cent whom Mr. Wilson so greatly loves, to go back to farming and quit shooting each other? And is it wrong to compel those who prefer to keep shooting to change their minds very rapidly or die?

A sect of nonresistants would say "Yes"—that the use of force even against the most violent and hateful foe is always wrong.

But Mr. Wilson is not one of them. He does not wish to use force against Mexico, to be sure, and the force he has used has been so handicapped by his negotiations with Carranza as to the use of railroads, that it has had to do three times the work to accomplish one-third the results possible for a force of its size.

But Mr. Wilson evidently is willing to use force against Germany.

The difference is this: In the one case we engage in a relatively short and certainly successful campaign against Mexico, which will result in the inclusion within our sphere of influence, both for its benefit and our own, of a vast, fertile, potentially rich neighboring territory. We need have no more definite political relations with it than we at present have with Cuba, Nicaragua, Hayti. Probably even Mr. Wilson would not wish us now to withdraw our protectorate from those countries and permit them to relapse into the condition in which Mexico now is and will continue to be under its guerrilla bandit leaders.

In settling the Mexican situation we also remove a dangerous flank, and an excellent excuse, for attack from a great power.

In the other case we engage in a war with the chief military power in the world in the expectation of doing with the aid of our feeble arm what four or five of the great powers of the world have been unable thus far to do with their strong arms—crush Germany.

If you look into the pages of history you will find that Germany has had wars lasting thirty years and (with truces) nine years and seven years. It may not less than seven years before we can get out of this war if we get into it.

If we win in a war against Mexico we know what we get out of it—a secure continent. And it is practically impossible for us to lose.

If we finally win in a war against Germany, what do we win? Blessed if we know. "The overthrow of German militarism" will be the gibb answer. Yet and the substitution of some other—Russia's, perhaps, or Japan's. There is always some chief military power, just as there is always one biggest boy in school.

Our best interests are bound up in the preservation of the balance of power in Europe and Asia, not in the ascendancy of either faction. Win or lose, the submarine is here to stay as a commerce destroyer, just as much as the machine gun and the 42 mortars.

If we win in war with Germany we get—What?

England, France, Italy, Japan, and Russia retain their power and probably cut up the German colonies and outlying districts among them. We get—what? If Mr. Wilson has made a bargain with the allies as to our compensation, he hasn't let congress, or so far as we are aware anybody else, know.

If we lose in war with Germany—"Ah," is the explanation, "but that is impossible. In time Germany will be worn down." It probably true we should win in time, but not necessarily so, by any means. Many things might happen. What, for instance, if Russia, having got all the Black Sea and Persian territory it wanted, concluded a separate peace. Russia did a similar thing in the seven years' war against Frederick the Great and so Frederick won. With Russia out of it, the rest of us could never whip Germany.

BRITISH CABINET TO KEEP OFFICE; CRISIS SETTLED

ONE YEAR AGO TODAY IN THE EUROPEAN WAR

French and Canadians forced back and Germans approached closer to Ypres.

Allied fleet began another bombardment of the Gallipoli forts in the Dardanelles.

United States replied to German government's criticism of its foreign policies, denying allegations and rejecting suggestions that exportation of arms be prohibited.

PLAN TO WRECK LAKE LOCKS WAS HATCHED IN U. S.

LONDON, April 20.—The whole nation was surprised and the great majority of the people were cheered by the unexpected announcement that the cabinet meeting this morning that the cabinet decided over the question of extending military conscription had been compromised.

The Labor party, which was the only political group united against further measures of conscription, is credited with paving the way to the agreement. The leader of the Labor party, Arthur Henderson, president of the board of education proposed, according to the reports, a further trial of voluntary enlistment, with the promise that the Laborites would consent to a gradual extension of conscription if it proved necessary to secure the number of men which the military authorities consider essential.

All Facts Are Satisfied.
No Split on Party Lines.

Among the politicians, David Lloyd George, Sir Edward Carson, who returned from the cabinet meeting of his dissolution with the Gallipoli campaign, and Lord Milner—the two last being strong conservatives—have led in the demand for extending conscription.

Dutch liner Ryndam, Rotterdam to New York with a general cargo, mail, and passengers.

Norwegian steamer Mimedal, Baltimore to Bergen with rye and barley; Norway, Haven, and New Orleans to Gothenburg with a general cargo.

Swedish steamers Baden, Baltimore to Stockholm with wheat; Alida, Galveston to Odense with cottonseed cake; Sydland, Tampa to Stockholm with phosphates; Inland, Gothenburg to Tampa in ballast; Bremen, Christiania to Boston with a general cargo.

Legal rate of interest in Illinois is as follows:

Where no rate of interest is set in the contract only 5 per cent may be charged. The parties may agree to pay 7 per cent in their contract or notes, or rate, and, as a penalty, if a higher rate is agreed upon, the lender shall forfeit and be entitled to receive only the sum loaned. However, the debtor usually call attention to such excessive rate of interest when sued up and, if successful, may force any one to charge 24 per cent per annum interest. The best step any one so doing is to refuse to testify.

Strike Now!

Right now is the psychological moment to advertise in Chicago.

Chicago bank clearings have just smashed all previous records. Chicagoans have money and are spending it.

It is not necessary to "reason why" the chaos of Europe and the threat of war have not produced depression. The important thing is to recognize the fact that the Great Central Market is doing an unprecedented business.

MRS. ROWE NOT GUILTY IN SPLIT SALARY SCANDAL

Mrs. Eaton's "Maizie" Charges Laid to Spite Over Job by the Merit Board.

political purpose whatever, and which forbids the payment of money or other valuable thing for and on account of appointment to the public service.

"We find no evidence which warrants connecting the name of Mrs. Margaret E. Milwales with the matter under investigation."

Wide Latitude on Evidence.
The widest latitude was exercised by the commission in the endeavor to gain all information obtainable concerning the allegation of Mrs. Eaton of payment of money by her to Mrs. Rowe. Much testimony was received which was not legal evidence.

"The testimony showed that Mrs. Eaton was chagrined by the appointment of Mrs. Rowe as head of the welfare department, to which office Mrs. Eaton felt she was more entitled than was Mrs. Rowe. Soon after her appointment as superintendent of social surveys under Mrs. Rowe, Mrs. Eaton began to build up a case against her superior officer.

"Checks drawn by Mrs. Eaton, payable to currency and cashed by her, bear notations that the money so drawn was for Mrs. Rowe, though the probative character of such notations is nil. On two occasions she secured witnesses, Ald. Rodriguez and Fulton Gardner, to observe her at the bank draw checks, make notations thereon, have them cashed, then place the currency in an envelope, and put the envelope in a handbag."

Question if Envelopes Were Same.

"Each of these witnesses testified that later he saw Mrs. Eaton hand to Mrs. Rowe an envelope, and there was nothing to show that in which they had seen the money placed at the bank, or if the same, that they contained the money so placed. Mrs. Eaton, according to the testimony, had ample opportunity to change the envelopes or their contents unobserved by either witness."

"It appeared from the evidence that the delivery of reports in envelopes by the commissioner of public welfare by employees in the office was not an unusual happening. Other witnesses gave hearsay testimony of what Mrs. Eaton had told them."

Mrs. Eaton Not Corroborated.

"There was absolutely no circumstance to corroborate the contention of the statements, outside of circumstances created by her and entirely under her control. So her testimony stands uncorroborated. It is flatly contradicted by Mrs. Rowe."

"The situation, therefore, is the word of one witness opposed to the word of another witness. Hence we find that the charges made by Mrs. Eaton against Mrs. Rowe are not substantiated, and we further find that Mrs. Rowe is not guilty of all charges."

"Section 36 of the civil service act provides what officers may prosecute violations of the act. If the attorney general or the state's attorney of Cook county is in possession of complaints which either of them deems sufficient to institute proceedings upon, we tender them the record of the sworn testimony taken in the investigation, together with all exhibits introduced."

Verdict Long Delayed.
In view of Mayor Thompson's warm commendation of Mrs. Rowe, who is a widow of his wife, the verdict was put off.

WORKMEN BEAT POLICEMAN FOR STOPPING BALL GAME

They Seized His Club and Star Before Reserves Arrived from Station—One Arrested.

Policeman Thomas Brosnan of the Chicago avenue station was stripped of his club and star and severely beaten shortly after noon yesterday when he attempted to stop ten employees of the Towson Manufacturing company, 215 West Huron street, and the E. A. Delano company, 217 West Huron street, from playing baseball in front of the buildings.

The club was recovered, but his star could not be found. A riot call was sent to the station.

Ignatz Pietrowski, 22 years old, an employee of the Towson Manufacturing company, was arrested in his home, 1525 West North avenue, yesterday afternoon as one of the assailants of the policeman.

At the time when the finance committee decided to abolish the position held by Mrs. Eaton, and the time that Mrs. Eaton decided to make public the story of her payment of money to Mrs. Rowe were identical.

Commenting on Mrs. Eaton's assertion that she grew to feel that she was a "party to corruption," the statement says she made public speeches for the mayor, defending him against "unjust attacks" during the period when she testified she was "coming across."

Along with the verdict the commission issued a review of the 575 pages of evidence taken in the case. Stress is laid on Mrs. Eaton's testimony that she thought for a time the contributions were the nature of a loan. The commission says it was privately advised there could be no criminal prosecution in such cases if the "victim" believes the money is simply a loan, to be paid back later.

Analyzes Witnesses' Statement.

The commission's supplementary statement analyzes testimony given by Ald. Rodriguez and Gardner and by unnamed charged that Mrs. Eaton shifted envelopes on her way from the office to Mrs. Rowe, and that she had been paid a salary by Mrs. Rowe, and that she had been paid a salary by Ald. Rodriguez and Gardner and by unnamed.

"Mrs. Eaton's testimony shows that she did not become convinced that it was her duty to make these payments public until after the finance committee had voted to abolish the position she held. It is evident that she had much to do with the publicity which this case attracted. She testified she knew it was to be used as an exposure of graft against the administration.

Wanted Mrs. Rowe's Job.

"When asked if she had tried to get the place given to Mrs. Rowe, Mrs. Eaton replied that she would have been glad to have it, and when asked by her own counsel whether she tried to get the place, she replied 'Yes.'

"On page 303 of the record, Mrs. Eaton testified that Mrs. Rowe had always stated to her that the money was to be returned.

"Mrs. Eaton is a finished witness and it is only after a careful study of the pages of her testimony and a comparison of her replies that one can arrive at her attitude or her position.

Job Gone; Decides to Act.

"Mrs. Rowe's testimony embodies complete and direct denial of all allegations made by Mrs. Eaton. Careful study of the evidence seems to show

HEALEY DEPOSES FUNKHOUSER AS "FILLUM" CZAR

Chief of Police O. K.'s White Slave Movie the Major Had Said He Would Bar.

Maj. M. C. L. Funkhouse yesterday was deposed by Chief of Police Healey as czar of the moving picture censorship board. The action of Healey, which makes the chief of police a court of review to pass finally on decisions of Maj. Funkhouse in the future, was made in connection with the consideration of a permit for the showing of "The Little Girl Next Door," the film dramatization of the white slave traffic investigation carried on by Lt. Gov. Barratt O'Hara and his chief aid, M. Blair Coan.

Maj. Funkhouse had stated to several persons he would under no conditions permit the film to be shown. This statement, according to the written report laid before Chief Healey, was made by the major to Lt. Gov. O'Hara and representatives of the Esanay producing company.

Specific charges were made that Maj. Funkhouse had stated to several persons he would under no conditions permit the film to be shown. This statement, according to the written report laid before Chief Healey, was made by the major to Lt. Gov. O'Hara and representatives of the Esanay producing company.

Doesn't Shock Big Bill.

The major saw the film, as did City Controller and Mrs. Eugene R. Pike. They pronounced it fit and proper and a great educational exhibition.

The request was then made for an unprejudiced censorship of the film, which was acted on at once by the chief, with the result that the several thousand pages of testimony elicited by the state senate vice commission's investigation throughout Illinois will be placed in the moving picture theaters in a few days.

Ettelson Passes on It.

Mr. Coan and representatives of the Esanay Film company, through their attorney Roy D. Neelin, laid the case before Chief Healey and Mayor Thompson.

A review of the court decisions on film censorship was laid before Chief Healey following this conference. The chief appointed Corporation Counsel Ettelson chief censor to pass on the picture. After ordering some forty modifications and cutouts, which do not materially affect the picture, the corporation counsel recommended that a permit be issued. Chief Healey announced that he will issue the g. rmit.

GIRLS, BEHAVE!

"Don't Try Any of That Palm Beach Style in Evanston," Art Director Warns.

ALM REACH inclinations with campus incomes "caught it" yesterday from Miss Stella Skinner, art director at Northwestern university.

Miss Skinner told the girls to be more calm in their attire and be known more for the charm of personality.

"Too many of our girls are becoming known by their dress instead of personality," she said. "Just because spring hats are displayed in January to tempt the Palm Beach devotees is no reason for Easter finery in mid-winter in Evanston."

"Women who ride in limousines match their slippers to their mode of travel. Slippers for style make a poor appearance in the muddy streets."

Miss Deegan said she

DID DUA NUDGE? GIRL WEEPS, YES; JURORS DISAGREE

Divas at Movie Knee Trial Horrified at Idea That Tenor Is Thus Accused.

The words of Octave, the movie pugil, and the saline drip from Miss Ethel Deegan's blue eyes proved too complex a problem for the wisdom of a jury in Judge Dua's court yesterday. The plangent question whether Octave nudged Ethel or Ethel nudged Octave is still punctuated with a shepherd's crook and a dot. The jury disagreed.

Miss Deegan would have the twelve headed Solomon believe that Octave Dua, the Belgian opera star, Carussoed her while the celluloid hero in a Madison street picture theater was looking the other way and no help was given.

Safe as Santa Claus.

Your beautiful diva acquaintances of the accustomed knee and elbow flirt, assured the jury, with shrugs, waving hands, and voices that played like heavenly breath on the shivering strings of a lyre, that "Mistress Dua" was deliciously moral. "She's a safe man!" as Marguerite Beale, former wife of Murestone, exclaimed. "I his pupil, have been many times in his studio, and he has never-as yet-stated in any improper manner," said Miss Alice Hammond, another singer of local note. And among others who testified to the innocence of Octave Dua were Fred Dougherty, theatrical manager and agent; Dr. Cyril Vermaer, Belgian doctor; Miss Marge McLeod, Chicago representative of Musical America, and Abel Merlefield, well known mezzosoprano.

She's of Fighting Stock. Miss Deegan, a small, brisk little girl of the fighting race, didn't despair a moment, however, of passing the buck in the quest of the movie nudge. Through a skillful cross questioning which tried to stifle the impulse of that nudge on her own knee, the party and confidently stuck to the accusation against Dua.

Miss Deegan said she had "traded" some of the department stores, a sort of shopping detective who finds out what hats, waists, and other merchandise is selling in other stores and reports to headquarters.

"He nudged my knee, he pinched my leg, and he elbowed my corsets," she said. "There is a voice which ran up and down stairs like an elocution student's after the fourth lesson."

Her Tragic Story. "I wasn't loafing in the picture show last afternoon," she testified. "I take my lunch hour when it suits me. This time in '-(here Miss Deegan wept)" and sat down "(time out for more sobs)-put his overcoat over his knee"- heavens knows, I didn't want any publicity."

Then, under cross examination of Dua's counsel, Attorney F. J. Strychman, Miss Deegan revamped her story and said Dua followed her home from the theater. He followed her in haste. He tried to evade her and he tried to attract her attention. Attorney Strychman remarked that the only way he could correlate Miss Deegan's statements was by the conclusion that they were going around in a circle. Mr. Dua thereby following Miss Deegan and Miss Deegan Mr. Dua.

Somewhat Accustomed to Beauties. Fred Dougherty, character witness for Dua, testified that the singer in his work with the Chicago Opera company and on other engagements in Chicago had been associated with numerous models, chorus girls, and beautiful women of the stage.

"And," he said, "I never heard a word of complaint."

Dua himself then laid aside his blonde case and with chamois gloves in hand climbed to the stand where one wears truly to talk, and all of it.

"It is false," he said impressively. "I had been asked to consider a moving picture contract, and was to go the following morning for a 'test.' So what more natural than I should turn into a picture theater to see how the actors do? I had never seen a picture before. I sat down, my overcoat on. I was there two seconds. Then a knee touched my leg. I saw this girl. I got up and took off my overcoat, and she took off my lapels. But it was no good. She touched me again and again. I pushed her away. Then she jumped up and ran to the usher. He asked me to leave, which I did with dignity."

"I had the faintest idea of flirting with the girl. I wouldn't annoy myself with such. I got on the car at Dearborn and Madison streets, and then she leaped on after me and started a loud noise. The conductor said if we wanted to fight to get off. I asked her what she wanted and she said: 'I want to arrest you.' Very well," I said, and followed her from the car to a policeman."

RULING OF COURT AGAIN BEFUDLES FORESTRY PLANS

Interest Levy of 1915 Knocked Out, but 1916 Is Safe, Reinberg Says.

A Supreme court decision yesterday brought more trouble upon the county officials who have been trying for months to get the $2,000,000 forest reserve bonds into use.

The court held, in the case of Dwight Perkins, that the 1915 tax levy ordinance providing for $60,000 to meet interest on the bonds is illegal. The reason is that the ordinance was published in a German and not an English language newspaper.

1916 Levy Legal.

The decision, however, refers to the 1915 measure, and, according to President Peter Reinberg of the reserve board, does not apply to the 1916 levy. In the case of the 1916 levy THE TRIBUNE recently, free of charge, published the ordinance in order to make it legal.

"I agree the 1915 interest levy is illegal," Mr. Reinberg said. "Some of the money has been collected, but any taxpayer who wants to back it welcome to have it. The tax amounts to only 1 cent on each $100, so I do not think many taxpayers will object."

The 1916 levy, as I understand it, is entirely legal, made so by the gratis publication of the ordinance in THE TRIBUNE. We can, therefore, go ahead with the forest preserve plans."

General Levy Safe?

Mr. Reinberg, on the other hand, insisted the general county level, which reaches an aggregate of near $12,000,000, is legal.

"It is the same fight that is waged each year by the railroads and the corporations," he said. "They lost when it was carried to the Supreme court. I don't know whether the tax levy was done both the individual and the nation, as is always the case with the voluntary system in time of war."

Realty Men Fight Tax.

During the day the Cook county real estate board added its backing to the fight against paying $1.14 of the county levy.

The letter sent out by President Robert E. Brooks says:

"We are attaching an opinion holding the Cook county levy and the forest reserve levy both illegal, and their collection can be enjoined. The amount of this illegal tax is 60 cents for each $100 assessed."

"Arrangements have been made with our attorney to handle all the cases brought to him by our members or any of their clients on the following basis: Our attorney to receive as a fee one-half of the amount of the illegal tax saved the tax payer, who will pay the actual court costs, which will be slight."

VOLUNTEER SYSTEM FAILED IN ENGLAND DATA SHOWS

BY CAPT. HENRY J. REILLY.
Washington, D. C., April 20.—[Special.]
J. B. W. writes: "Can you give me any data showing that the voluntary system of recruiting has not provided sufficient men for the British army during the present war?"

REPLY.

Lord Derby's report on recruiting to Earl Kitchener gives the following figures to include December 15:

	Single. Married.
Men of military age	2,179,231 2,812,461
Number starred	650,128
Number of men enlisted	1,108,666
Number of men rejected	1,344,979
Number of men still willing to serve	201,800
Total number of men willing to serve	1,380,600 1,670,263
Number remaining, not served or still willing to serve	1,029,231 1,152,041

Starred Men Immune.

Starred men are those whose occupations in civil life are such as to be considered necessary to support the army in the field. The men given as of military age do not include those who joined the army between the 15th of August, 1915, the date on which the Derby scheme started to operate, and the 23d of October, 1916.

The substance of the matter is that Lord Derby's scheme actually added to the prime minister's pledge that the willingness to go when called upon.

The Derby scheme as operated caused considerable discontent among the men whom it was desired to recruit. As it was known prior to the time of registration what branches of the agricultural industry would be starred, many who had no right to do so claimed to belong to these classes. While the authorities did not know the contrary, their neighbors who had told the truth and been listed as widows, the sole support of families, etc., the $40,000 single men and 1,344,979 married men, or a total of only 215,431.

Mortgages of Ten Millions.

The American Real Estate company was incorporated under the laws of Rhode Island in 1889 and has been engaged in the business of buying and developing selected tracts of real estate in and around the city. Some of the property controlled by the concern are said to be subject to mortgages approximating $10,000,000.

The complaint says that while the value of the assets of the defendant company cannot comply with demands for the payment of bonds that have become due without a forced sale of its real estate at a heavy loss.

GOSSIP OVER GIRL'S BABY DRIVES HER TO TRY SUICIDE.

Catherine Hogan Swallows Poison When with Fiance Because "No One Seems to Care for Me."

"I have tried to be happy, but the whispering and gossiping drove me mad. I thought I'd be better off dead."

Catherine Hogan is 19. Since she was 15 she has had a problem—a baby. During the last week she has read the stories of Carolyn Kister, who wanted to clean because a man betrayed her. Early yesterday Catherine took bichloride of mercury.

"Don't do anything for me—I want to die," she told the physicians at the country hospital. They say the poison undoubtedly will prove fatal.

"The girl had been to the corner for an ice cream soda with H. W. Black, to whom she is engaged. Black knew her past and forgave. The two were sitting in the Hogan home at 4808 South Fifth avenue when Catherine swallowed the poison.

"I flirled," she said. "Then Florence was born. I think the world of her. But she has seemed to care for me."

Black spent an hour at the girl's bedside in the afternoon.

"I want to live now," she whispered just before he left.

C. O. P. POWWOW HEARS SHERMAN HIT U-BOAT NOTE

Announces Fight on Wilson as Candidates for State Offices Loosen Booms.

BULLETIN.

Peoria, Ill., April 21, 2 a. m.—The Republicans of Illinois gathered for the state convention were deadlocked early this morning. One report said Fred E. Sterling of Rockford would be chosen chairman of the state committee tomorrow morning. Mayor Thompson of Chicago is reported to have agreed to give him the three votes from Cook county which he controls. By a combination of the Thompson, Lawton, and Thompson forces Sterling will, it is said, receive fourteen of the twenty-five votes on the state committee.

In return for throwing his influence to Sterling, Mayor Thompson, it is said, will receive the Sherman-Lowden support for national committeeman in June.

By E. O. PHILLIPS.

Peoria, Ill., April 20.—[Special]—Senator Lawrence Y. Sherman, in a statement made to 100 Republicans of all factions, aligned himself against President Wilson's program with Germany, and it would not have his support in the Senate, and that he would not vote for any policy that would involve the United States in war with "one or more" nations, on the facts thus far presented.

Tomorrow the Republicans of Illinois will endorse Senator Sherman for the presidential nomination for the presidency and in state convention will present him as the Illinois candidate at the Chicago convention next June.

Will Avoid All Friction.
State and local issues, including the Cook county financial difficulties are to be met at the meeting.

The state convention which will meet tomorrow probably will name a committee on resolutions and then take action until September. The state platform will not be reported until next fall.

Mayor Thompson and his friends in Chicago seemed to be the only early objectors to the suggested program. They arrived just in time to ascertain that the long threatened Sherman-Lowden combination was in full control of the tactical situation and that the hall had little to do except to jump aboard and take pot luck.

Former Gov. Denison and National Congressman West have one big card to play if the Sherman-Lowden crowd is in putting through a state committee that names Fred E. Sterling for chairman, Medill McCormick temporary chairman of the convention, and Congressmen McKinley for permanent chairman.

The Denver-West forces are determined to recall State Chairman Garrett Kinney. The Sherman-Lowden people have

ROGER SULLIVAN RULES HARMONY SHALL RUN RIOT

Colorless Session of Democratic State Convention
Today Is Prediction.

Miss Lily Leitzel

Springfield, Ill., April 20.—[Special]—A colorless session is the outlook for tomorrow's Democratic state convention. Roger Sullivan's harmony program contemplates no pyrotechnics and the opposition is not disposed to burn red lights.

There will be a perfunctory endorsement of the national and state administrations and perhaps a few kind words will be said for Gov. Dunn, but there is to be no flatfooted commitment of the party to any man's candidacy.

Some of the governor's friends are insisting that the convention take a decided stand for him, and it is just possible some of them will get into the convention with resolutions to this effect, but tonight there is no indication of a row. Sullivan's last word will be accepted, and his disposition is to postpone endorsement until after the nominations are made.

There is a dearth of candidates this time. Elsa Williams, candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, is the only man who has opened headquarters. He is her and the man on whom the anti-Democratic folks are to unite, but the organization folks show no enthusiasm in his behalf. Later it is said, they will have a candidate. The name most frequently mentioned in this connection is that of Justice Craig of the Supreme court.

Attorney General Lucey is to preside at the convention and make the keynote speech. It is announced tonight that any one who wants to talk harmony will be welcomed to the platform. Those who threaten trouble are to be suppressed.

FORD LEADS CUMMINS AND HUGHES IN NEBRASKA VOTE.

Rejected all suggested compromises, and United States District Court Clerk Charles P. Hitch of Paris, the discussed compromise, has refused to be considered.

Sherman Crowd Sees Victory.

At midnight the Sherman-Lowden managers claimed to be sure of thirteen votes of twenty-five for Sterling for state chairman. Three more votes from Cook county would make sixteen, and they said they didn't care whether the mayor came in or stayed out.

Sherman's defiance to the president was made at a dinner given by Col. Frank L. Smith, Col. Lowden, and Treasurer Russel were in the governor's column. Mayor Woodruff of Peoria may be a candidate for Lieutenant governor. Senator Lathrop of Eldorado is in this race. Louis L. Ellsworth of Mount Vernon, Howard Jayne of Miamisburg, Albert Erickson of Chicago, James W. Gullett of Elizabethtown, and Walter B. Weston of Chicago were the secretary of state entries. Len. Small of Kankakee and George E. Keys of Springfield held open house for state treasurer.

James O. Monroe, who was private secretary to Secretary of State Harry Woods up to the time the latter committed suicide, announced himself yesterday a candidate for the Democratic nomination for secretary of state.

The political gossip is that the Sullivan forces will not oppose his nomination, but may get behind him in the effort to defeat for nomination the present secretary Louis Stevenson, who was appointed to the vacancy by Gov. Dunn.

POLICE FORESEE CLEARING UP OF MIDDLETON CASE

"Give Us Two More Weeks and Mystery Will Be Lifted,"
Is the Promise.

"If you will give me two weeks more to investigate, I believe I can point out the murderer of Mrs. Agnes Middleton and clear up one of the most brutal murders and baffling mysteries in years."

That is the promise made to a coroner's jury yesterday at the inquest into the death of the 40 year old widow by Lieut. Joseph Palczynski of the West North Avenue police station.

It was made after five witnesses had testified, bringing out the details of the tragedy in the widow's "affinity flat" at 4307 Armitage avenue. August Deutschmann, roomer in the widow's house, and Harry Erwin, a trading stamp salesman and warden of the widow's hand, have been under suspicion.

Case Against Deutschmann.

The police case against Deutschmann, who formerly was a solder in a church choir, was told by Detective Sergeant John Quinn.

"When we arrived at the Middleton home," Quinn said, "Deutschmann told us he found the widow's door locked and her body when he looked through the keyhole. He said he immediately told Miss Norma Nelson, a clerk employed by Mrs. Middleton in her store, that the widow was dead.

"Now, we would like to know how he knew she was dead. There was no blood visible when we entered the bedroom. It was not until we pulled the bedclothes off the body that we discovered blood on the bed. This was not visible to Deutschmann when he looked through the keyhole."

Quarreled with Widow.

"We found a bottle half full of whisky in the room. This leads us to believe the widow had company the night she was murdered. We found blood stained clothing in Deutschmann's room. There were footprints on his window sill. We have learned Deutschmann and the widow quarreled the night of the murder."

Miss Norma Nelson testified to finding the door to the widow's general store locked and of going with Deutschmann to find the widow.

"When Deutschmann looked through the keyhole he turned to me and said: 'The widow is dead; I am going to call the police.'

Deutschmann did not appear at the inquest. He is out on $20,000 bonds. The inquest was continued until May 3.

HOUR MAY COST AMERICA $33,000,000 IN SUGAR DUTY

Vast Imports Are Being Held in Bond to Be "Dumped" on the Market

BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.

Washington, D. C., April 20.—[Special.]—Thirty-three million dollars in sugar duties will be lost by the United States if the present deadlock in congress over the repeal of the free sugar provision of the present tariff law lasts even one hour longer.

The astounding fact was brought to the attention of members of the ways and means committee today when government figures were presented which showed that hundreds of millions of pounds of sugar have been imported to this country during the last few weeks and are being held in bond in warehouses along the Atlantic coast.

The hostility of Harkin and word sent by THE TRIBUNE to the city treasurer, Lorimer said, were largely responsible for the closing of the La Salle. In answer to a question by Assistant State's Attorney Hayden N. Bell the former senator said he knew no reason why Harkin had been hostile to the bank.

His Opinion of Harkin.

"What do you think now about Harkin's action?" Bell asked.

"I think now that he was hostile to the sugar, which now bears a duty of one pound, shall go on the free list May 1. If that provision of the law should not be repealed until after April 30, all of the sugar now being held in bond could be dumped on the market at a profit."

The bill calling for the repeal of the free sugar provision of the existing law, as it passed the house, was a straight-out repeat, but the senate so amended the measure as to provide that the effective date of the free sugar clause should be made May 20, 1920, instead of May 1.

The senate provision and instructed the house committee to stand over for the provisions agreed to in the house.

"When the bank opened," he testified, "I don't believe 5 per cent of the depositors were not my warm personal friends, and they were the people who got hurt. I never read or knew of a man who had more loyal friends than myself."

Questioned on Warnings.

Bell questioned Lorimer in detail regarding the testimony of Owen T. Reeves Jr., Charles H. Meyers, James T. McDowell, and Charles G. Dawes, all of whom said that they had informed the former senator against Munday.

"Did any of those men say anything to you that indicated Munday was unsafe?" the prosecutor asked.

"I wouldn't like to say definitely, No," Lorimer answered. "Whenever I am associated with any big man there are people who come to me and say this or that against him. I never yet have believed that men are not primarily all right."

HOUR MAY COST AMERICA $33,000,000 IN SUGAR DUTY

Vast Imports Are Being Held in Bond to Be "Dumped" on the Market

BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.

Washington, D. C., April 20.—[Special.]—Thirty-three million dollars in sugar duties will be lost by the United States if the present deadlock in congress over the repeal of the free sugar provision of the present tariff law lasts even one hour longer.

The astounding fact was brought to the attention of members of the ways and means committee today when government figures were presented which showed that hundreds of millions of pounds of sugar have been imported to this country during the last few weeks and are being held in bond in warehouses along the Atlantic coast.

The hostility of Harkin and word sent by THE TRIBUNE to the city treasurer, Lorimer said, were largely responsible for the closing of the La Salle. In answer to a question by Assistant State's Attorney Hayden N. Bell the former senator said he knew no reason why Harkin had been hostile to the bank.

His Opinion of Harkin.

"What do you think now about Harkin's action?" Bell asked.

"I think now that he was hostile to the sugar, which now bears a duty of one pound, shall go on the free list May 1. If that provision of the law should not be repealed until after April 30, all of the sugar now being held in bond could be dumped on the market at a profit."

The bill calling for the repeal of the free sugar provision of the existing law, as it passed the house, was a straight-out repeat, but the senate so amended the measure as to provide that the effective date of the free sugar clause should be made May 20, 1920, instead of May 1.

The senate provision and instructed the house committee to stand over for the provisions agreed to in the house.

Bank Valued at $680,000.

Mark Levy, real estate man, placed the value of the La Salle Street bank property at $680,000, or twice the assessed valuation in 1914. He admitted that the general basis for assessments in Chicago is 70 per cent of the actual value. On this basis the value is $600,000. The bank carried the property at a value of $642,000, and it was sold by the receiver for $605,000 and the proceeds.

Lorimer will conclude his testimony today.

New York, April 20.—[Special.]—Lamon Vernon Harkness, former third vice president of the Standard Oil company and second largest stockholder in the concern, who died in California on Jan. 17, 1915, left an estate estimated at more than $100,000,000.

The hostility of Harkin and word sent by THE TRIBUNE to the city treasurer, Lorimer said, were largely responsible for the closing of the La Salle. In answer to a question by Assistant State's Attorney Hayden N. Bell the former senator said he knew no reason why Harkin had been hostile to the bank.

CULVER OFFERS FREE TRAINING TO AID SCHOOLS

Military Camp Is Open to 200
High Students gratis and 400 at Bare Cost.

CHANCE SEEN FOR CHICAGO.

BY HENRY M. HYDE.

A camp for the military training of 600 high school boys from the various states of the middle west will be opened at Culver, Ind., on May 15. Last year the academy offered, free of all charge, two weeks training in camp for 200 boys from the high schools of Indiana. The school furnished the tents, the food, the equipment, the instructors, and even the uniforms for the 200 boys.

This year the camp will also be open for two weeks from May 15. Training will again be offered, free of cost, to 200 high school boys, who will be apportioned among the states of the middle west. Accommodations will also be provided for 400 additional boys from the high schools. Each of these 400 will be charged exactly the cost of the service and equipment furnished. The cost to each boy for the whole two weeks will be $1.25 for board and maintenance of camp and $6.50 for a uniform, which will remain his property after the camp.

Boys to Aid Teachers.

The effort is being made to get for the boys from high schools in which it is likely that military training will be established. It is thought that after a couple of weeks' hard drill in the military atmosphere of the camp, the boys will be of great assistance to their teachers in making military drill popular and efficient in their home schools. For that reason admission to the camp is limited to boys in the lower high school grades, seniors whose school connection is almost over being barred.

There are twenty-one high schools for boys in Chicago. Each of them has been invited to send three of its boys to the Culver camp. One out of each three will be awarded a scholarship, which covers all his necessary expenses, including a uniform. The other two will be required to pay the cost price of $17.75 for the two weeks in camp, which covers the charge of $50 for the required uniform. It consists of a campaign hat, an olive drab woolen shirt, two pairs of khaki breeches, and leggings.

Dillmaster for Each.

When the 600 boys from middle western high schools go into camp on May 15 all the cadets who regularly attend the academy will be still there. The newcomers will have, in the first place, a chance to see the splendidly trained boys of the regular enrollment at drill. They will also have the great advantage of individual instruction from students with from one to four years of training behind them.

Since the high school recruits are to be same only two weeks and the training must be made as intensive as possible, one of the cadets will be assigned to work with each of them. Every boy will have his own individual drillmaster until at least the first rudiments of a rifle and holding himself like a soldier are driven home.

Last year the same plan was followed with the 200 Indiana schoolboys who were guests at the camp. And unprejudiced observers say that as a result of having been a cadet instructor for each guest, he got a much better idea of military discipline and training in two weeks than did the grown men who spent a month in the camp at Fort Sheridan.

$1,000 for Home.

"Judge, I'll give $1,000 towards founding an institution to care for boys such as this one I am appearing against," said S. R. Harris & Co., 5 North LaSalle street, addressing Judge Fisher yesterday in the Boys' court.

"I have suffered heavy losses from boys stealing plumbing," continued Mr. Harris. "I am realising some of these little fellows are to be pitied."

The defendant was Louis Falconetti, 17 years old, of 638 South Sangamon street. The case was continued.

Chicago high school boys who may be thinking of going to the camp should not get the impression that a two weeks' pic-nic is proposed. They will be turned out of their tents by the bugle call at 6 o'clock each morning. First of all, there will be setting up exercises in the open air for ten minutes. Each morning a certain number of boys will be detailed to serve as "kitchen police." When breakfast is over each boy must wash up and put away his mess kit. All the rest of the day, until 8 o'clock, with the exception of two recreational periods, and the usual time for meals, is devoted to lectures, drills, practices in trench digging, target practice, horsemanship, signaling, and tent pitching.

No Larking After Taps.

It is certain that by the end of each day the high school boys will be fatigued to the bone and sound asleep at a quarter after 8 o'clock.

The Chicago board of education is planning to install military training in the high schools next fall, if it cannot be accomplished before the summer vacation.

It would certainly be a great advantage to have three or four boys in each school who are acquainted with the drill and with some idea of discipline.

The total cost of sending sixty-eight boys down to the two weeks' camp would be about $750, plus the railroad fare to and from Culver. Probably $1,000 would cover the entire expense. Doubtless the school authorities would be willing to extend the same terms to the regular school term, particularly if care is taken to select only those who stand high in their studies.

The mystery was dense and deep. There was a keen suggestion that Mrs. Bell Bradford "formerly was Mrs. Wachio Gorski, who divorced Mr. Gorski some years ago and became Mrs. Bradford of Eagle River, Wis."

Questioned by Attorney Frank H. Scott, she explained she was a friend of the Modjeska family and as such came into Mr. Modjeska's circle of friends. She said she met Mrs. Modjeska through an art dealer and made portraits of her and her daughter, Mary.

The event of Mrs. Bradford, who is described as being very ill, was mildly surprising to Mrs. Modjeska's attorneys, who were not expecting her from Eagle River, Wis.

Mrs. Bradford explained she did not come to Chicago for the purpose of testifying in the Modjeska matter but to take treatment at St. Luke's hospital. She told the court she has been maintained at the hospital by a Chicago woman.

Questioned by Attorney Frank H. Scott, she explained she was a friend of the Modjeska family and as such came into Mr. Modjeska's circle of friends. She said she met Mrs. Modjeska through an art dealer and made portraits of her and her daughter, Mary.

CHICAGO TENNIS CLUB PAYS $70,000 FOR GROUNDS

BACKERS AIM TO HOLD BIG TOURNAMENTS HERE

Site Covers Two Blocks on North Side—700 Members Wanted.

$30,000 FOR COURTS.

JOE M'DONALD QUILTS GOLF JOB TO ESCAPE U.S.G.A. 'PRO' RULING

BY KEENE GARDNER.
After negotiations extending over a period of two years, tennis fans of Chicago yesterday concluded a $70,000 deal for grounds for the Chicago Tennis Club. The new club will cover two full blocks on the north side—a tract bounded by Winchester avenue on the west, Grandville avenue on the south, West Ravenswood park and Ridge avenue on the east, and Belmont avenue on the north.

The new club at present has 115 members. It will have room for 700. Its present roster includes practically every local player of note. The first efforts in its formation were made at the time of the dissolution of the Kenwood Country Club and the practical passing of the old Aztec club, which afforded accommodations for local players until a few years ago.

Spend $30,000 on Courts.

The site of the club courts cost $70,000. A bond issue of $30,000 was given in part payment. Thirty thousand dollars more will be expended for courts, clubhouse, and equipment. The officers expect to have everything in full swing for the present season. In future seasons the club will bid for city, state, and western championships. One of the first activities will be the fitting up of an electric heated court. Cement, stone dust, and turf courts will be built, and the plans also call for covered indoor courts.

The erection of a clubhouse will be deferred for a time. Buildings now on the ground will be fitted up as quarters for men and women. The Kenmore station of the Northwestern railroad is almost at the entrance, only a fifteen minute ride from the loop. The new club will develop star young players and boost the Chicago brand of tennis to the excellence of golf in this district.

Compares Tennis and Golf.

"Chicago has forty good golf clubs, and not one permanent tennis club," an officer said. "There is no reason why this city should not have the best in the country. In the last seven or eight years the number of tennis players of the ranking golfers in this country have been Chicagoans. But the best representation in tennis for this city in recent years has been one man in the list of the first twenty."

"The only reason for this is the number of good golf clubs and the lack of tennis clubs. Athletic young fellows are diverted to golf when they get out of college. There is every incentive to play golf when you can."

The first steps in the formation of the new Chicago Tennis club came with the passing of the Kenwood club two years ago, and were taken because the Aztecs also disengaged about that time—wished to continue. The organizers had all sorts of difficulties to overcome. One was to secure a right to its name. A club known as the Chicago Tennis club was organized in 1891 by President Harlow N. Higinbotham of the Columbian exposition and Edward M. Skinner, general head of the Association of Commerce, but had passed out of existence in 1902 without filing a certificate of dissolution with the secretary of state at Springfield.

Red Tape to Get Name.

It was necessary to secure affidavits from all the former members and officers who could be located, stating that the old time club was dead. Before the present body got its title, Harlow N. Higinbotham, secretary-treasurer of the former club, is among the organizers of the new club and aided in straightening the tangle.

The original committee which attended a meeting Jan. 30, 1914, at which the new club got its start, included Waldner, Forrestal, Walter T. Hayes, Jewett E. Ricker, James H. Winston, Herbert Pope, Miss Mary K. Brown, and Mrs. Louise, R. Williams. Heath Byford, present state champion, joined a week later. Byford, Hayes, and Forrestal are the only members of the organizing committee now active officers.

PRINCETON WINS HOT CREW RACE

Boston, Mass., April 20.—Formal notification that the "business activities" of Francis Quinet, former national amateur and open-golf champion; Paul Tewksbury, and J. H. Sullivan Jr., rendered them ineligible longer to compete as amateurs by Eddie O'Donnell, Wilbur D'Aleme, and a driver yet to be selected, verify the early season prediction that they will put their money where their mouths are.

Fred Duesenberg, designer and builder of the thoroughbreds of steel that bear his name, soon will move his plant from St. Paul to Chicago, having already leased a building at 2290 Oakdale avenue. He will make this city his headquarters after May 1, and direct the campaign of his racing team from here.

Ogden Also Chicago Car.

The moving of Duesenberg to Chicago gives this city two native son teams in the speedway events of the impending season, for in addition to the newcomers, the Ogden, which will be driven by Tom Alley, halls from here.

Chicago speed fans also will be vitally interested in the showing of the three Crawford Specials, built and campaigned by Eddie Chandler, as they are quipped by Eddie Duesenberg.

PRINCETON WINS HOT CREW RACE

Princeton, N. J., April 20.—Princeton's varsity eight won over Harvard in a spectacular finish on Lake Carnegie today, crossing the finish line half a foot in the lead. The winner's time was 9:12½ and Harvard's 9:13. The junior varsity race was won by Harvard by two lengths. Time: Harvard, 9:46; Princeton, 9:56.

The Princeton seniors, after a spirited struggle at the start, took the lead, which they had increased to three-quarters of a length at the three-quarter mile post. Harvard puffed up its stroke and gradually narrowed the distance between the two boats until they met into the final stretch almost even. Both crews made thirty-six strokes to the minute, but the last pull was with Princeton.

Capt. Cochran of the winning crew stroked his men beautifully. At the three-quarter mile post he had dropped his strokes to thirty, increasing it to thirty-two, thirty-four, and thirty-eight as the Harvard crew crept up. Lund, the veteran who led the Harvard eight, made a magnificent spurt after the mile and a half post had been passed, and was rapidly overtaking the Princeton boat when the finish was reached.

REUBEN WINS MAT CONTEST.

Ben Reuben won from Young Americans in a wrestling show at the Virginia, Halsted and Madison streets, last night. He took two straight falls in 9:00 and 10:15. Leo Pardello threw Bob Menegoff out of the ring in their scheduled "best two out of three" bout. They were on the mat for forty minutes without a fall. The match was then stopped, and upon reconsidering the scrap Bob held Pardello for fifteen minutes. Then came the "rough stuff," and Menegoff's arm was injured.

BROOKLYN CLUB SUSPENDED

New York, April 20.—The Broadway Sporting club, a Brooklyn organization which recently permitted two young boys to engage in a boxing bout, today was suspended indefinitely by the state athletic commission. The club's physician was barred from acting further for a licensed boxing club and the other officials were variously suspended.

CHICAGO TO BE HOME OF DUESENBERG CAR; PLANT SECURED HERE

BY J. C. BURTON.

Chicago may be able to boast of being the adopted home of the world's champion racing car. It all depends on whether or not the Duesenberg team, consisting of Eddie O'Donnell, Wilbur D'Aleme, and a driver yet to be selected, verify their mounts in time to meet the hall of fame that Quinet occupied last year.

Fred Duesenberg, designer and builder of the thoroughbreds of steel that bear his name, soon will move his plant from St. Paul to Chicago, having already leased a building at 2290 Oakdale avenue. He will make this city his headquarters after May 1, and direct the campaign of his racing team from here.

Interest in Quinet Case.

All of these men are interested in the news coming from Boston that Francis Quinet has been given a rating by the Massachusetts Golf association, and are anxious to ascertain if the M. G. A. proposes to let the former champion retain his amateur standing in the organization.

The West Pullman Country club will not be able to compete in the Chicago Open golf tournament, as the club's budget is too small to support the entry fees.

The club's manager, Frank Tewksbury, and his wife, Mrs. Tewksbury, are the only members of the organization committee now active officers.

Real Love Stories

Love to Jenny Wren.

EDITH had slaved for two long years in a law office as stenographer and general office assistant—ten years of ceaseless grind and monotonous drudgery. Distractingly plain by nature, her colorless existence had intensified the dreariness of her appearance and implanted a look of utter despondency in her eye. Her meager salary sufficed to keep the slender girl and her widowed mother. They were decently housed, had sufficient to eat, and clothing enough to cover their respective forms, and there it ended.

But EDITH accepted her lot patiently and uncompplainingly. Her duty to her mother surmounted any mere desire of her own. EDITH was one of those souls to whom realization of a duty to parent or parents was congenital. Gayety was not for her; fine raiment, a joyous existence, and romance were for girls with beautiful faces and graceful figures, and mothers who were self-sacrificing. So she watched the girls in the office adjourned leisurely after dinner for the matinée on the Saturday half-holiday with quiet resignation. She went home to do the Saturday cleaning. "Mother" must be relieved.

The following Monday morning EDITH had reluctantly dressed herself and adjusted herself to the daily morning routine when the busier sounded, an unusual thing this hour in the morning. Two o'clock in the afternoon was Mr. H.'s usual hour for dictation. But EDITH took her notebook and pencils and repaired to her chief's office.

"Miss J.," said Mr. H. briskly, "this is Mr. Bravley, an important witness in one of our cases. He has some testimony to dictate which I wish transcribed at once." Mechanically, EDITH's little Jenny Wren figure sank into the chair her employer had vacated as he left the room intent on other business. Then as mechanically she lifted her eyes to meet those of her vis-a-vis. One look, and then she flushed and embarrassed, slipped her gaze to the notebook before her. There was a moment of intense silence. What was the magnetic thrill which passed between them? What was it sent the blood bounding through her veins at a rate it had never gone before, suddenly painting the gray clouds of the morning a rosy hue? Poor little EDITH! Love, romance, sex—all were to her meaningless terms. Never before in her manless, placid existence had she failed to be able to analyze her emotions. But she must not let this man have the faintest suspicion of the feelings that were surging within her.

She never knew how they waded through that dictation nor could she remember a word that had been said of a

Besides those that are found in the ocean there are many exquisite fresh water pearls, some of the loveliest being discovered in the western water of America.

While the best pearls are round or oval in shape, yet baroque pearls rather irregular in shape are well suited to certain types of jewelry.

Although stores of famous pearls cost fabulous sums, yet even the women of moderate means, who prefers the real to the imitation, may satisfy her taste with a string of small pearl串, for they are really quite moderate in price.

In the illustration a charming pearl necklace encircles the slender neck of the gown originated in a shrimp pink taffeta, reveals the return of the boyish, free-and-easy days of old.

Edith's figure is in the upturned hem of the silk, which shimmer prettily for it is iridescent in weave. Beneath this is a lovely lace underskirt, richly embroidered with silver.

personal nature. She went about in a state of exhilaration. Some new element had entered her life, which seemed to make it worth while.

The next evening on reaching home her mother met her at the door. "Hurry, Edith, there is a box for you." An unexpected parcel was an event in the little household, and Edith hastily unwrapped it.

Edith's eyes were wide with wonder at the sight which greeted them. Rose-red and vivid, fragrant American beauties, diamonds, it seemed, a riot of color and perfume. In the corner her mother's sharp eyes detected the inevitable note. It was from him, the man, the presence, asking if he might call, and when.

That was the beginning of the end—or Edith's spinsterhood. In two months they were on their honeymoon.

Broncho Billy in Full Blast

There isn't much choice, for downright bitterness, between the woman scorned and the debt deferring. Combined, the result may be appalling, as note this lively description rendered of G. M. Anderson, known broadcast as "Broncho Billy," once upon a time the "A" in Essanay: "An alleged motion picture actor and counterfeiter cowboy, addicted to flamboyant extravagances of attire and dime novel heroics, a chronic ambition to avoid meeting any obligations of any kind, either legal or moral."

The gifted reconteur is Mrs. Anna Winter Simpson, a former actress who asked in the Superior court yesterday that Mr. Anderson be compelled to appear in judgment for $324 she recovered against him in the Municipal court Sept. 17, 1909.

Mrs. Simpson was a player for Anderson in the very early days of Essanay and her claim is for services rendered. She affirms she has been thwarted in her attempts to collect on the actor's property. In the Essanay offices it was stated that at the time of the dissolution of partnership G. K. Spoor ordered Anderson to meet the obligation.

Keep your bowels in a healthy condition and drink lots of water.

Mrs. H.'s Pie Crust.

THE crust is one of the foods requiring extra and often wasted labor.

Its starch molecules are shut up in fat and not liberated until the pancreatic juices emulsify this oil.

And any starch which might be digested in the mouth so as to save the stomach the irritation of a sudden load is further rendered indigestible because either soaked with acid fruit juices or at least chewed and mixed with them. Pie crusts are made of shortening and water, the old办法 of shortening being investigate for eating. They were really a sort of chafing-dish in which food could be cooked deliciously. They can be used the same today, but seem uneconomical.

But perhaps every woman likes to feel that she can make a pie crust, for such ability was an old-fashioned measure of cooking skill. And the experience of one of my recent correspondents seems worth giving circulation on that account.

Mrs. H.'s Pie Crust.

"Here is a little experiment of my own—I am just a young housekeeper. I used to make pie crust by mixing one cup of shortening with three of flour and one teaspoon of salt. I would keep this on hand taking out enough for a pie when I wanted it and moistening with water. Later I found I could make just as good crust using one cup shortening with four of flour, and finally I use a recipe that is only one-fifth shortening, depending for the same results on added skill with the fingers. I presume my next step in advance will be to discard pie altogether, but I shall at least have the satisfaction of knowing that I can make a good pie before I send you my formula for corns if you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope.

Would Give Unspeakable Joy.

SOME readers may have purchased new cellos and discarded their old ones. I will gladly pay express charges for old cellos and carded instruments. A cello would give me unspeakable enjoyment.

"Grazon R."

It is not every day, or every week, in which one can be sure of giving "unspeakable enjoyment" to a fellow creature. If there's a disease and half forgotten cello in the possession of one who is too busy with other matters to play upon it, will it make a note of the desire expressed by George R.?

Starling a Crocheting Club.

"This is the first favor I have asked from the Corner. Will you please help me to get some crocheting patterns? We have a dozen or more old ones. I will gladly give them to you if you will make a note of the desire expressed by George R.?"

MARY L."

Fancy workers in general, whether women or not, are requested to lend a kindly ear to this petition. Patterns which have served their turn in the hands of others will be gladly accepted by the girls in the neighborhood of the formation of such clubs and circles. Let us encourage the growth in the right direction. Some day if I can find time I shall write an essay upon it.

"Fancy Work as a Safety Valve and as a Missionary." Let us collect patterns for these sensible young people.

D. B."

Nothing helps along the Corner you are good enough to like more effectively than really good recipes from the personal cook book of the practical housewife.

We thank you for your contribution and invite more from the same source. Shall we christen your recipe one "egg cake?"

The title will attract the eye of many a worried woman.

John Newton McCormick, Episcopal Bishop of western Michigan, will be the special preacher today at the three hour Good Friday service of the Episcopal church and missions along the Burlingame railroad, which will be held at Emmanuel church, La Grange. The churches which will take part in the service will be St. Michael and All Angels' of Berwyn, St. Mary's of Morton Park, Grace church of Hazelwood, St. Andrew's church of Berwyn, St. John's church of La Grange, and All Saints' church of Westmont. Mr. and Mrs. Edward K. Parker, father and mother of the colonel, and she, too, is coming. Monroe Robinson and his bride, who was Dorothy Jordan of Boston, are living in a complete little modern apartment on the upper east side.

Their magnificent wedding presents are much in evidence, also a great deal of highbrow literature, which would indicate that Mrs. "Moss" Robinson, certainly not her husband, is true to the intellectual traditions of her native town, that Boston of which it is written "where a Cabot only speaks with a Lowell and a Lowell only speaks with a God."

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson spent their honeymoon at Palm Beach and are only recently home.

PLANS 5 STORY APARTMENT FOR ROGERS PARK

Charles F. Henry Will Build Fireproof Flats at Green-view and Birchwood.

The construction of one of the largest apartment buildings in the city was announced yesterday in connection with the purchase of the 150x100 feet at the southeast corner of Greenview and Birchwood avenues. The property in question was acquired by Charles F. Henry from Henry C. Bach for a reported consideration of $30,000. It is stated that Mr. Henry will improve the property with a high grade fireproof building of five stories to contain ninety-six apartments, one of two, three, and four rooms.

The building will be three stories on the ground floor with a main cafe, ballroom, and ladies' waiting room. The building for which designs have been prepared by Architect Rey France, is expected to cost $200,000, and in connection with its construction S. W. Straus & Co. have made a bond issue loan of $150,000, severance fees, at 6 per cent.

Wabash Avenue Sale.

A sale was reported yesterday of Wabash avenue frontage from Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth streets, in which $500 a front foot is said to have been paid. The property comprises the premises 2445, 25x191.5 feet, which was sold by Mrs. Ellen Hayes to Dr. N. E. J. Michellet for a reported $20,000.

In exchange the purchaser conveyed the two story store and flat buildings, lot 50x126 feet, at the northeast corner of Clark and Hyland streets, at a valuation of $30,000, subject to $5,000. Maden Bros. represented Mrs. Hayes, and Cochran & McClellan Dr. Michellet.

Transfers Show Gain.

The transfer figures for March and the first quarter of the year, as given out by Recorder Joseph F. Connelly, make an exceedingly favorable showing, the statement being made by Mr. Connelly that the business for the month of March exceeds all previous records in the history of the office. "The increase has been such," said Mr. Connelly, "as to make it necessary to appeal to President Rosenberg of the county board for more office space." The record shows that the Terrene department, so that persons paying over money and closing deals may have the convenience of privacy. Accommodations also are desired for lawyers as their clients who may have business with the department. An emergency appropriation for additional help may also be requested."

Terminal Affects Total.

For March there were 3,706 transfers with a total consideration of $30,700,972 as compared with $24,446, amounting to $7,257,573 for the same month in 1915. It should be said, however, that much of this huge increase was due to the recording of the deeds in connection with the new west side union terminal. For the quarter there were 12,061 transfers with a total consideration of $42,900,426, as compared with 11,837 in number and $21,808,124 total consideration.

Under the Terrene system there were 1,685 transfers for the quarter, a total consideration of $1,109,455, as compared with 800 for the same period of 1915. Applications for initial registration were 254 with total value of $98,500, as compared with 187 and total value of $75,823 for the same period a year ago.

Michigan Avenue Deal.

The property at 2225-27 Michigan avenue, 100 feet of ground and improved with two detached stone front dwellings has been sold by Max Goldstein to Albert Pick for a reported consideration of $35,000. Mr. Goldstein took part in payment the 75 feet at 2227-41 Michigan avenue, improved with three frame dwellings. Brede & Goodman were the brokers.

The same brokers report the lease for Kobl & Teich to the Chicago Lodge No. 43, 1200 Ordinance, of the entire third and fourth floors of the building, 200-22 South Michigan avenue, formerly occupied by the Sportman's Club of America, for a term of years at a reported total rent of $55,000. H. C. Winn of Willoughby & Co. was associated in the deal.

Flat Changes Hands.

Murray Wolsech has sold to Frederick T. Haskell the twelve apartment building at 6720-26 Maryland avenue for a reported consideration of $40,000. The building is on a lot 60x105 feet to an alley and the apartments contain four rooms each. The building has a gross annual rental of $3,300 and the sale was subject to an incumbrance of $23,000. Mr. Haskell conveyed in part payment the properties 2204-2408 and 3143 Calumet avenue, each improved with dwellings. S. G. Iverson of Hibbard, Porter & Bro. was the broker.

Jules Taken has sold to Edward S. Roxburgh the nine flat building at the southeast corner of Waveland and Crawford avenues for a reported consideration of $30,000, subject to an incumbrance of $24,500. The purchaser conveyed in part payment the property at 8426 Drummond place. F. S. Kunkel & Co. were the brokers.

Buys Broadway Store.

John F. Rieble has bought from N. H. Goldstrand the store and flat property at 5500-51 Broadway on a lot 60x100 feet for a reported consideration of $15,000, subject to an incumbrance of $11,000. W. G. Young & Co. were the brokers.

The double residence property at the southeast corner of Washington boulevard and Hoyne avenue has been sold by Dr. and Mrs. S. H. Aurnau, Laura M. Murphy for a reported consideration of $15,000. The lot is 61 feet on the boulevard and 120 feet on Hoyne avenue, the improvements comprising a double residence of thirty-three rooms. In connection Dr. Aurnau purchased from Albert K. Matthews the nine room apartment front residence and brick garage at 501-502, 26x127 feet, west front, with four story bakery building.

U.S. AUTHORITIES DIFFER ON CAUSE OF RISE IN OILS

Trade Commission Holds Prices Too High—Bureau of Mines Head Predicts Advance.

The New York and Chicago stock exchanges will be closed today, Good Friday. The banks will remain open.

The Federal trade commission and the United States bureau of mines appear to work at different data with reference to the production of crude oil and gasoline. The former holds to an increase in production and the present price of gasoline unswayed. The head of the bureau of mines has issued a report in which he declares that the prevailing prices of gasoline not only may continue for some time but undoubtedly will reach higher levels before there is any permanent relief.

The latter authority points to the fact that the oil companies in competition to supply the market with oil to meet demand in the next fiscal year have offered gasoline at $1.25 a gallon for the whole year, and agrees that if the United States demands larger quantities of gasoline, a company will have to pay more. He says further that with a rate of production the same as in 1915 the crude oil supply of the United States, from which the present supply of gasoline is produced, will be exhausted in twenty years.

More Used; Less Produced.
“The situation is even worse,” he continues, “for the production is not going to remain stationary. The demand for gasoline has increased more than 200 per cent in the last five years and is now increasing at an even faster rate. On Jan. 1 of this year there were 2,225,000 automobiles in use, and automobile manufacturers estimate that this will be increased to 3,000,000 by Jan. 1, 1917. As the average automobile will use more than ten barrels of gasoline a year, this means an increased consumption of more than 60,000,000 barrels a year.

“The situation is still more important to the situation, present indications forecast a decreased production of gasoline from oil for 1916 rather than an increased production. The daily production of crude oil for February in the midcontinent field, which produces 75 per cent of our reliable crude oil, was 40,000 barrels less than the average daily production for 1915 and 20,000 barrels less than the average daily production in 1914.

Record High Prices Set.
“This reduction was in the face of the strong incentive to find new fields given by the rising market of the last six months, which has culminated in record high prices for that field of $1.65 a barrel for the crude, while in some cases a premium of 10 cents a barrel is charged.

“The demand for gasoline has outstripped the demand for all other petroleum products, with the result that these products, amounting to about 76 per cent of the production, are being sold for less than the cost of production. In other words, 25 per cent of the production, consisting chiefly of gasoline, must pay all costs in addition to the amount that is lost in marketing the remaining 75 per cent.

We are exporting at the present time 20 per cent of our entire production of all petroleum, including 16 per cent of our gasoline production. We are burning 25 per cent of our petroleum under boilers, which is a shameful and criminal waste of precious natural resources, and we are using another 20 per cent of our crude petroleum inefficiently in competition with coal as in the manufacture of artificial gas.”
